LITTLE HISTORY OF EGER

Eger was founded in the 11th century. It was occupied by the Turkish between 1596 and 1687. During this period, Eger served them as an important outpost, and 35-metre high minaret is one of the town's landmark.

It has been an archbishop's seat since 1804. The former Minorite Church (1758–71) is one of the finer architectural monuments of Hungary. In the early 18th century Eger revived, and the number of ecclesiastical buildings that were built in the town gave rise to its name “the Hungarian Rome.” Eger's best known wine is Bikaver (Bull's Blood) a full-bodied, red wine
